III Points 2026: what the lineup is really worth

We ran the III Points 2026 bill through PEAKTIME’s demand model — estimating the talent budget, then scoring each act on momentum, value, live conversion and Miami-market freshness. III Points isn’t a pure dance festival, so the money splits three ways. Here’s where it went, who’s underpriced, and who’ll actually move tickets.

Where the budget went

Estimated booking fee per act as a share of the ~$2,290,000 costed total. III Points buys across three lanes: electronic / dance in lime, live / indie / alt in blue, hip-hop / rap in orange. PEAKTIME tracks the dance lane — the rest is curation.

Key wins & watch-outs

SMARTEST BUY

KETTAMA — converts, and fresh for Miami

Flagged a Strong Buy at ~$40K: live-conversion 71, RA 76 — his room demand dwarfs his streaming. And the saturation math favours this date: he’s maxed out in SF/Oakland (5 shows/3mo, saturation 100) but carries no recent Miami play. Value and scarcity in the same booking.

VALUE MID-CARD

PAWSA & the Carola b2b punch up

PAWSA: #25 on the index, momentum 72, RA 85 (top-five on the whole bill) — a Strong Buy at ~$45K. Inside the headline tech-house b2b, Franky Rizado also reads underpriced (momentum 41, strong-buy), so the Marco Carola slot carries real demand value even with Carola himself outside our roster.

PAYING FOR THE NAME

The marquee is curation, not a deal

The biggest lines — Underworld (5% of the costed budget), Lil’ Kim, Blood Orange, Men I Trust — sit outside the dance-demand model entirely. They sell Ill Points’ eclectic identity, not booking value. Inside the dance lane, Four Tet reads Priced ahead (premium; momentum cooled to 16).

BREAKOUT TO WATCH

Discip is the steepest climb on the bill

Momentum 83 — the highest of any tracked act here — booked deep in the undercard at an estimated ~$14K. Dean Turnley (momentum 71) and Roddy Lima (60) are climbing fast too. Early-booked accelerators that look like steals in hindsight if the curve holds.

Market saturation — this is a Miami date

CLUB-SPACE FATIGUE RISK

- > Chasewest carries Miami saturation 76 (3 shows/3mo) — a Club Space regular, maximally familiar to the local room.
- > PAWSA (sat 54, 2 Miami shows), Beltran (sat 52, played Miami 2 days out) and Miami-native Danny Daze (sat 52) make the Club Space tech-house lane the most locally-worked part of the bill — great value, lower novelty for this crowd.
- > Charlotte de Witte played Miami ~8 days before the on-sale read (sat 52) — recent regional presence.
- > Upside: KETTAMA, Four Tet, HAAi, Floating Points and the Euro-underground block carry their saturation in other markets — comparatively fresh for South Florida.

Streaming ≠ tickets

The number a streaming chart hides — RA live-conversion relative to streaming reach. On a curator bill like this, the contrast is the whole point:

CONVERTS ABOVE ITS WEIGHT

- > Seth Troxler — conversion 98/100 on just 0.1M listeners
- > Floating Points — conversion 88/100 on just 0.7M listeners
- > Sam Alfred — conversion 85/100 on just 0.2M listeners
- > HAAi — conversion 82/100 on just 0.5M listeners
- > Roman Flügel — conversion 82/100 on just 0.1M listeners
- > VTSS — conversion 79/100 on just 0.2M listeners

Niche draw > streaming size — the value end of the bill. Seth Troxler turns 0.1M listeners into a 98/100 room read.

BIG STREAMS, SOFT LIVE DEMAND

- > Adam Port — 14.2M listeners but conversion 2/100
- > Cloonee — 9.5M listeners but conversion 2/100

Plus Disco Lines — 20.7M listeners, the bill’s biggest streamer, but no RA booking footprint yet. Great for the on-sale headline, riskier as a room-filling underground booking.

Who actually drives ticket sales

Three jobs on this bill, and they barely overlap. The marquee / curation (Underworld, Lil’ Kim, Four Tet, Blood Orange, Charlotte de Witte) sells the on-sale and the festival’s eclectic identity. The Club Space tech-house engine (Marco Carola b2b Franky Rizardo, PAWSA, Cloonee, Beltran, KETTAMA) converts Miami’s dance core — the city’s home-court genre. And the underground-credibility block (Seth Troxler, Floating Points, HAAi, Roman Flügel, 999999999, VTSS — all high live-conversion) sells the curatorial bona fides and over-delivers in the room. The hidden engine, as always, is live-conversion: Seth Troxler’s 98/100 on 0.1M listeners is the exact inverse of Adam Port’s 14M-listener / conversion-2 profile — and a discerning buyer wants the former.
